Re: In the Matter of USTelecom for Forbearance Pursuant to 47 U.S.C. Section 160(c); WC Docket No. 18-141; Category 1

Dear FCC,

I live in one of the most privileged, high-tech cities in the world. Yet, my main options for internet were AT&T and Comcast, both of which are known nationwide for poor service, disregard for customer privacy, and abysmal customer service. Fortunately I was able to switch to Sonic, a competitive internet provider. They charge similar rates to the big two, but provide great customer service and have strong privacy principles. Please maintain the rules that allow Sonic and similar companies to offer competitive service so the market can decide which internet provider is best, rather than being at the mercy of a couple of huge companies that have no reason to care about their customers.
